

Computer/Electronic Accommodations Program

CAP's Technology Evaluation Center (CAPTEC) is a demonstration and assessment facility located in the Pentagon. People seeking solutions to accessibility challenges can visit CAPTEC to see assistive technology (AT) and compare different solutions.

CAPTEC Services

Needs Assessment

Employees with disabilities, wounded Service members, and members of the general public can come to CAPTEC for a personalized needs assessment to determine the appropriate accommodation to resolve employment barriers. CAP staff assesses individual needs on a case-by-case basis. The assessment process can expedite the identification of appropriate accommodation solutions and is an important part of the accommodation process.

Education and Demonstration

- Managers and supervisors can learn how AT enables employees with disabilities to have equal access to the information environment and be an effective member of the workforce.
- Medical/rehabilitation professionals can see how AT can provide support and accommodate those who have sustained an injury in the course of employment or military service.

CAP on the Road

CAP Staff can come to you at your federal agency in the DC metropolitan area! Invite CAP for on-site educational sessions and demonstrations to help educate employees and managers about CAP services and accommodation solutions.

Assistive Technology Stations

Assistive technologies for evaluation include:

- Blind or low vision: screen readers, magnification software, Braille displays, and closed circuit televisions.
- Communication disabilities: word prediction software, text-based devices, and voice amplifiers.
- Cognitive disabilities: cuing and memory aides, notetakers, and speech recognition software.
- Deaf and hard of hearing: assistive listening devices, telephone amplification devices and videophones.
- Dexterity disabilities: computer input devices, including alternative keyboards, pointing devices, and speech recognition software.

Technology demonstrations and needs assessments can also be conducted via video teleconferencing.

There are also a series of short videos to demonstrate available technology available on our website at www.cap.mil.
